PLANNING AUTO RACES

Annual Event Scheduled for July 4th in Grenada.

The North Mississippi Fair Association is making preparations to entertain a great crowd at its annual auto races to be held at the fairgrounds in Grenada on Wednesday, July 4th. Johnny Rainey, of Memphis, known all over this section, has contracted to promote the events and eight drivers have already signified their intention of entering. The races will be open to the world and handsome awards will be made to the winners of each event.

These annual programs have drawn enthusiastic spectators for hundreds of miles around and with the promise that this year's program will exceed all those of the past, a larger throng than ever is expected.

A squadron of aeroplanes will be here that day and will thrill the crowds with death-defying and breath-taking feats in midair. They will also carry passengers.

On the night of the 4th, besides dancing there will be other entertainment that in itself will be worth coming to see.

Association officials are elated over the prospects for a big fourth in Grenada.

LOTS TO BE AUCTIONED NEXT THURSDAY, JUNE 14

The second big auction sale of building lots in Sun Garden Terrace in Grenada will be held next Thursday, June 14, beginning promptly at 1:30 p. m. The same auctioneer, Mr. A. Harris, who conducted the Sun Garden auction last November, is to conduct this sale. Mr. Harris is an auctioneer of wide and varied experience and his great success in his previous sale here would seem to insure the success of next Thursday's sale in advance.

At the first sale held in November of last year, many Grenada citizens purchased lots in the subdivision. Several homes have been erected there since that time and the section is fast developing and growing. It is the logical direction for the city to expand—in fact it is about the only direction. Located just within the southern corporate limits on the graveled highway, within easy walking distance of the schools and business district, with sewerage, lights and telephones available, Sun Garden Terrace lots should be disposed of with little difficulty.

As announced in this issue of The Sentinel on page 3, $200 in gold is to be given away on the grounds during the auction. It behooves all who can possibly do so, to attend the sale.

TODD AND SHAW TIE

Walton Todd, runnerup in the doubles events at the Mississippi State Trapshoot held here last year, was high gun last Friday at the weekly shoot of the Grenada Gun Club with a score of 48x50, sharing honors equally with J. E. Shaw, Jr., whose score was the same. Shaw, too, has carried off numerous honors at various shoots and is regarded as one of the best shots in the local club.

Commencing Thursday, June 7, the weekly shoots will be changed to Thursday instead of Friday, since all Grenada business houses will close on Thursday afternoons during the summer months. This will give every business man an opportunity to participate in the weekly events.

Scores Friday were as follows:

Walton Todd	48x50
J. E. Shaw, Jr.	48x50
W. K. Huffington	46x50
J. E. Tyler	44x50
E. E. Wilkins	43x50
D. K. Winton	42x50
J. W. Bradley	41x50
George Garner	41x50
G. S. Granberry	39x50
J. H. Parrish	38x50
Shade Steele	32x50
W. E. Roberts	30x50
W. B. Holloman	30x50
F. R. Lickfold, Sr.	29x50
Mrs. J. E. Shaw, Jr.	26x50
Mrs. George Garner	24x50
Jack Wilkins	22x50

HIGHLANDERS ENJOY THE RAIN ON MONDAY

Oh boy, what a rain we had on Monday. The Highlanders were out in it all at Bledsoe's well. It was in the third inning of the big ball game between the Bull Dogs and the Panthers. The Bull Dogs were at bat with two out and two men on base, with score 5 and 2 in favor of the Bull Dogs. Last week the Panthers beat the Bull Dogs 13 to 12. It was in the third when the game was called on account of a sudden downpour of rain. Someone shouted "beat it". No second urging was needed because everybody ran for shelter like the woods were afire. We came back to town in a hurry. Mr. Moody was kind enough to let us have our lunch in the Masonic Temple. Mr. A. N. Rayburn paid for the lunch this Monday. Each meeting some man who is interested in the Highlanders will pay for the lunch.

Rev. McLeod was also present. There were several visitors present. H. N. Rayburn, Reporter

Do not miss the closing Sunday night. A treat in store. Important. Everybody invited.

REV. R. A. TUCKER RECEIVES DOCTOR OF DIVINITY DEGREE

The many friends of Rev. R. A. Tucker throughout north Mississippi congratulate him upon his having the degree of Doctor of Divinity conferred upon him only recently by Millsaps College and by Birmingham Southern University.

Especially the many friends of Dr. Tucker in Grenada, where he resided as pastor and presiding elder for twelve years, are gratified at this distinction given him.

Dr. Tucker is now serving the First Methodist church in Columbus, regarded by many as the most prominent appointment in the North Mississippi conference. He is a man of pronounced views on general matters and is one of those characters that does not beat about the bush in letting his views be known. He is always duly deferential and is ever considerate. He is in truth a really practical man and his conduct and demeanor as an exponent of the life and truths of the Christian religion are never compromising. He knows how to meet the world, as the term is generally used in the pulpit, on its ground, but in doing so he never compromises his position as a minister. He is abreast of the affairs of the world. He knows what is going on outside of the "programs", "movements" and other similar things of the church. He is a student of men and of conditions. One of his most outstanding characteristics is his loyalty and fidelity to his friends and his ability and cleverness in demonstrating his faith in his friends. To get real close to Dr. Tucker, to see him tried and tested, is to respect and esteem him far above the average.

In every charge he has ever served, he has drawn to himself a large circle of true and abiding friends. He has maintained himself well as a minister and must have the ears of the higher church authorities, otherwise his influence in the conference would not be so potential as it is nor would he be named to serve the most important places in the conference.

Dr. Tucker and his most excellent wife are in Grenada this week attending the Sunday School institute of the Methodist church at Grenada College.

SMITH IN A WALK

It looks like a landslide in the Democratic national convention at Houston for Governor Al Smith.

The sweeping victory of the New York Governor in the California primaries shows conclusively that it is Smith against the field—and the field is straggling so far behind that it is hardly worth noticing.

It is at least an even money wager today that Governor Smith will be nominated on the first ballot, and further opposition will be futile.

In view of this plain state of affairs, which even the radical religionists, the Anti-Saloon League, and the Ku Klux Klan must recognize, it would be worse than folly for Mississippi to instruct its delegation to vote against the New York Governor.

Ours is the most solid Democratic state in the Union—the only state in which the party nominee carries practically every precinct in a presidential election.

Mississippi will remain Democratic. All loyal members of the party will frown on the abortive movement now being attempted to organize a third party.—Jackson News.

The News vision is correct. Six months ago the Tarpon predicted the nomination of Al Smith. The Democratic Party has no other outstanding man, other than Smith, who would have a ghost of a chance of being elected and the South and West need him in the White House to aid in the flood control. For Mississippi to instruct her delegation against Smith would be political boneheadness. This State is going to vote for the nominee of the Houston Convention and it would be better, for our delegation, after giving Pat Harrison a "favorite son's vote for president", to go to Smith to head the ticket and with Smith's friends put our Pat on for the Vice-President.

AUCTION SALE SATURDAY, JUNE 9th AT TIE PLANT

Many useful articles will be sold at public auction Saturday, June 9th, beginning at 10 o'clock in the grove around the Methodist church at Tie Plant. Among the articles to be sold are: Porch swings, library tables, new quilts and comforts, fancy needle work, homemade candies, fruits, fresh vegetables, chickens, carpenter's tools, also one Ford coupe. Sale wholly for the benefit of Tie Plant Methodist Church.

Nice sandwiches served at 10c. Everybody invited.

MEETING AT COFFEEVILLE

Jewett J. Burson, young evangelist, and his party, consisting of Kenneth Smith, musical director, Earl C. Edwards, pianist, and Harold E. Richardson, business manager, are now holding a revival meeting at Coffeeville. This evangelistic group is especially noted for its work among the young people.

Everywhere that Mr. Burson has conducted a meeting, it is said that remarkable success has been had. Although the members of the party are the youngest organized evangelists anywhere, they are already making remarkable progress in spiritual work.

Those who have the opportunity should not fail to attend the meeting in progress at Coffeeville.

Anti-Smith Delegates Lose In Mississippi Convention

Opponents of New York Governor Licked at Every Stage of Contest—Delegates Go to Houston Uninstructed—Hubert Stephens Gets Great Ovation—G. M. Lawrence, Sentinel Publisher, Elected Alternate to National Convention.

The writer attended the Democratic State Convention in Jackson Tuesday as a delegate from Grenada County. Other delegates from here who went were J. N. Provine and J. H. Harris. None of these three had ever attended a state convention before and consequently the experience was a new one to them and was one from which each should have gained some valuable lessons. To see various political leaders from all sections of the state maneuvering in the convention hall seeking to carry this or that point was an interesting sight and was one that will long be remembered.

The delegates from seven of the eight congressional districts held caucuses Monday night to select their delegates to the national convention at Houston, the three executive committeemen from each of the districts and to agree on their presidential electors. These caucuses served greatly to facilitate the work of the convention which nevertheless remained in session from ten o'clock a. m. until 5:30 p. m.

Congressman W. M. Whittington, of Greenwood, was the keynote speaker of the convention. He was named temporary chairman of the meeting and was later overwhelmingly elected permanent chairman over Hon. John R. Tally, notwithstanding a concerted effort had been in progress the day before to defeat him. Hon. George B. Power, of Jackson, clerk of the House of Representatives, was named secretary.

Hon. John R. Tally, the nominee of the drys for chairman, was run over in good fashion by the election of Mr. Whittington. It will be seen that it was the counties of north and central Mississippi that did the job. The vote on the chairmanship by counties was as follows: For Whittington: Alcorn, Amite, Attala, Bolivar, Carroll, Chickasaw, Choctaw, Claiborne, Clarke, Clay, Coahoma, Copiah, Covington, DeSoto, George 1, Greene, Grenada, Harrison, Holmes, Humphreys, Issaquena, Itawamba, Jackson, Jasper, Kemper, Lafayette, Leake, Lee 2½, Leflore, Lowndes, Madison, Marshall, Montgomery, Neshoba, Newton, Oktibbeha, Panola, Pontotoc, Quitman, Sharkey, Smith, Sunflower, Tallahatchie, Tate, Union, Warren, Washington, Webster, Winston, Yalobusha, Yazoo.

For Tally—Adams, Benton, Calhoun 2, Forrest, Franklin, George 1, Hancock, Hinds, Jefferson, Jeff Davis, Jones, Lamar, Lauderdale, Lawrence, Lincoln, Marion, Pearl River, Perry, Pike, Simpson, Stone, Tippah, Walthall, Wayne, Wilkinson.

The keynote speech was a plea for party loyalty as was the address of Senator Pat Harrison. Both Congressman Whittington and Senator Harrison made it plain that they thought it would be unwise for the convention to send an insructed delegation to Houston. It was their view that if the national delegates should be trusted to represent Mississippi, they should be trusted to cast the state's vote unhampered and unrestricted.

Congressman B. G. Lowrey and Gov. Theo. G. Bilbo favored a delegation instructed to vote for "dry" candidates only, while Congressman Webber Wilson made a plea for the upholding of the prohibition law.

One of the greatest ovations of the day was given to Senator Hubert D. Stephens when he arose to address the delegates. His speech was a most masterful one and he was frequently interrupted by bursts of applause.

One of the interesting features of the convention was the contest over the seating of delegates from Issaquena County. The credentials committee handed in a majority report for seating one and a minority report which desired to recognize the other of the two contesting delegations. After a great deal of spirited debate, the majority report was adopted.

The most bitter fought question, one that had been anticipated through the day, came in the closing hour of the session. It was the matter of whether the Mississippi delegation should go instructed or uninstructed to the national convention. The majority report of the resolutions committee favored an uninstructed delegation while two members of the committee handed in a minority report, offering an amendment to the resolutions that Mississippi delegates be instructed to vote for no candidate for the presidential and vice-presidential nominations who was not an avowed "dry". After the amendment had been offered, no other speaker could make himself heard above the din and the cries of "vote", "question". A motion to table the amendment carried by 156 to 118.

A resolution by Gov. Bilbo calling for presidential primaries and the election of state committeemen by the people was not acted on by the committee.

The list of delegates and alternates to the Houston convention, presidential electors and members of the new state executive committee follows:

INSURANCE MEN TO HOLD QUARTERLY MEETING TODAY

The Grenada staff of the National Life & Accident Insurance Co. is to have a luncheon at Grenada Hotel today, Friday, June 8th. The meal will be followed by an inspirational meeting and business session in which will be discussed the betterment of service to policyholders throughout this territory. The Grenada district office of the company is in charge of T. W. Ramsey, a wideawake and experienced insurance man, and he and his force are producing splendid results for their company.

Several guests, local business men, have been invited to the luncheon.

LEADER'S SEMI-ANNUAL CLEARANCE BEGINS TODAY

Thousands of dollars worth of men's suits, shoes, hats and furnishings and ladies' slippers, hosiery and underwear are being put on the bargain block at 8 o'clock this (Friday) morning when The Leader, one of Grenada's finest and best stores, begins its semi-annual clearance sale. Real values await every buyer who is seeking to buy real merchandise at a saving.

When The Leader announces a sale, great interest is created throughout this trade territory. One knows that he can always get there the finest clothing, shoes, etc.. the ladies know that quality shoes, hosiery and underwear are included in this store's stock, and when such items are offered at a great reduction it is a real inducement to buy.

The Sentinel advises its readers who are interested in real business news to read every word of the page announcement in this issue.

CHAUTAUQUA GIVES FINE PROGRAMS IN GRENADA

This has been "chautauqua week" in Grenada. There may be many differences of opinions to arise about the financing of the chautauqua before it bills a town, but those who attend always admit that it gives many worthwhile attractions and that its programs are varied and that they not only entertain but appeal to the higher and better natures of people and serve to prompt men and women to get a better grip on themselves.

It would be a task beyond the limits of this article to mention in detail the different features on the program for this week. Those who ought to know and are supposed to be competent judges say the music has been of a high order.

The play Tuesday night, "Smiling Through", was a sad one in many respects, yet those who saw it must have felt a peculiar warming of their hearts and many, many thoughts must have run through the minds of the older heads, otherwise they are undoubtedly peculiar mortals. A glance backward is always helpful to the careful mind. A look in should never fail to touch those chords of the heart that get their music from the skies. Many phases of practical life were mirrored. The fruits of revenge, which always bear penalties, were hung upon the tree. Stubbornness that makes men and women do so many needless things and causes in many cases bitter tears was shown with striking effect. Loyalty, an attribute that is one of heaven's choicest gifts, was brought under review with striking force and effect. Fidelity, a double first cousin of loyalty, was demonstrated with marked significance. The results of bad deeds and rash acts could not have escaped the attention of the audience—all these things were strikingly held up before the spectators.

One of the most beautiful and consoling features of the play was that it showed that the spirits of loved ones who have passed to the beyond still hover round about those whom they loved while upon earth and who loved them—that what is bound in sincerity and truth upon earth is bound in heaven.

Those who saw the play and did not come away feeling better with the world and seeing more of sublimity in the lives of all men, failed to get a most beautiful lesson.

The lecture Wednesday night, "The old town in a new world", by Charles H. Plattenburg, was exceptionally fine. He got a grip on his audience at once. He took them practically all over the world, and from every place drew a worthwhile lesson. His every utterance was a plea for the best in life and for the enthronement of the highest ideals and noblest aims and purposes. He said everywhere he went more and more was he impressed with the greatness of this great country. He urged loyalty to home, to town, to neighbors and friends. He pointed out the dangers that are threatening the life of America today in the congestion of her big cities and stated that the downfall of the nations which were no more came because of the flocking of the people to the cities and the indulgence in vices such as are manifest in the great cities of America today. He urged watchfulness upon the part of each individual citizen. The lecture was full of good thought and was highly inspirational from many angles.

The chautauqua leaves some worthwhile lessons in every town it visits.

AN APOLOGY

The Sentinel desires to make a most humble apology to the Grenada girl scouts for the article appearing in last week's paper saying that the boy scouts were on a camp on the Winter place. The girls were the ones on the camp and they were ably chaperoned by Mesdames John Rundle and Lafayette Atkinson. They had a good time out there all by themselves and were not bothered at all by the presence of the boy scouts. The boys will go to Camp Tallaha, near Charleston, in late July for their annual outing.

A. S. HURT STILL READS THE SENTINEL

Some weeks ago The Sentinel received from Mr. A. S. Hurt his check for the renewal of his subscription, a thing he has been doing for more than twenty years since he left Grenada. He is now at Baton Rouge and still in the railroad service. Sid Hurt is a fine character in every respect, and while the passing years served to thin out the number of his old friends and former associates here, there are many in Grenada who know of him and still many more who are always interested in him.

COTTAGE CHEESE PIE

Ingredients—One cup cottage cheese, two-thirds cup sugar, two-thirds cup sweet milk, two egg yolks (whites reserved), one tablespoon melted butter, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one teaspoon vanilla.

Method: Beat the egg yolks, add the sugar and the milk. Then mix cottage cheese, salt, butter, and vanilla. Bake in slow oven 45 minutes. Beat egg whites still allowing a tablespoon sugar for each egg. Spread on top of pie, place in moderate oven.—Household Nutrition.

CITY COUNCIL MAKES GOOD APPOINTMENTS

The city council at its regular monthly meeting Monday night named Messrs. George Kilgore and Braxton Martin members of the police force with the view of their doing special duty at night. The appointments are both good ones and evinces a purpose on the part of the new administration to watch out for law violators and to make an honest, practical and persistent effort to apprehend those who violate the law.

The Sentinel wishes to commend the new administration for these appointments. Mr. Kilgore is not an unfamiliar figure on the Grenada police force and those who ought to know assert that there is no winking or blinking on his part at law breaking. "George", it is sometimes stated, "may be little but there is a whole lot of him when he gets into action behind law violators".

Braxton Martin is a new and untried man in official duties. Just after marshal Crenshaw's installation in May, he named Mr. Martin on temporary duty, as there seemed to be no provision for making a mid-month appointment. Braxton comes of stock that will stand hitched when the water gets hot. His father, J. W. Martin, was sheriff of Calhoun County and was for a number of years deputy marshal in Grenada, having been first selected for this place by Mr. Claud Hall when he was marshal. Braxton is a quiet unobtrusive individual, but is clean and honest and will keep faith with his friends and is true to his word, and when named to do a special job does not know how to temporize or toy with a situation. He was gassed during the World War. He is a young man of many fine parts and can be trusted anywhere. Both appointments are good ones.

10 YEARS AGO IN GRENADA

From the Files of THE GRENADA SENTINEL

Messrs. William Burt, George Snead and Bryan Baker went up to Memphis Sunday night to enlist in Uncle Sam's forces. The first two were accepted in the marines but Mr. Baker was turned down on account of his weight. These two boys will leave on the 15th for Paris Island, S. C., and the blessings of all Grenada people be with them wherever they go.

Mrs. H. M. Moore, nee Miss Hersee Moody, who formerly lived in Grenada, arrived this week from her home in California to visit her mother and stepfather, Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Ferguson, on Mound Street.

Miss Gladys Inman came down from Memphis last Saturday to spend Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Inman, and incidentally to be here during the vacation period of her cousin, Miss Marion Rollins, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Dora Rollins.

Mr. Rice Pressgrove left Monday for St. Louis on a buying trip. He was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Elizabeth, who attended the annual convention of the Sigma Iota Chi Sorority which was held on Wednesday.

Lieut. C. J. Hayden writes to his wife, nee Miss Kate Duncan Turnage, of his safe arrival "Somewhere in France." He stated that he had a most pleasant voyage over and enjoyed the trip very much.

Mrs. W. B. Jennings and daughter, Miss Vick, and Miss Blanche Denton, of Bardwell, Ky., spent the week-end in Grenada, guests of their brother and uncle, J. A. Denton. On their return home Sunday they were accompanied as far as Memphis by Mr. Denton.

Mrs. A. B. Campbell left Tuesday morning for Jackson to join her husband, who will be working out of Jackson for the Mississippi War Savings Committee.

Mrs. W. M. Cook and two daughters, Misses Lucille and Georgia, left this week for the Gulf Coast where they will remain the balance of the heated period.

Miss Katherine Todd has with her this week her cousin, Miss Elizabeth Walton, of Clarksdale.

Miss Louise Draper, of Batesville, was the guest of Miss Eunice Jones for the dance this week.

Miss Lillian Easter had as her guest for the dance Tuesday night, Miss Bessie Lay, of Charleston.

Mrs. W. H. Matthews, of Greenwood, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. F. R. Lickfold, in Grenada this week.

Mr. Ray Perry, of Belzoni, spent Sunday in Grenada with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Perry.

Miss Mary Olive Jennings, of the A. & M. College, is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith.

INSTITUTE IN SESSION

Methodists Assemble at College for Training.

What has come to be the annual Sunday School Institute for the Methodists of north Mississippi is being held at Grenada College. The purpose of the training week is to teach the Bible and to inspire greater efforts to learn the truths of the Scriptures and to make it possible for those who teach in the Sunday Schools to render more efficient service. The plan of all the protestant churches now is to standardize the work of the Sunday Schools and that is one of the main features kept in mind by the authorities in holding these annual training schools.

The leading ministers of the church from all over the conference have been in attendance, and are manifesting great interest in what is being done.

EARL BROWN SUCCEEDS PARKER AS CARRIER

Announcement is made through postoffice circles that Mr. Earl R. Brown of the Brown's Mill community has been named as rural carrier on route 5 to succeed Rogers Parker, who has been serving as temporary carrier since the middle of July 1927.

Mr. Brown passed a most creditable civil service examination and has made a reputaton as a young man of sterling character and as one ready to do any class of honorable labor. He is clever and obliging and it is safe to state that he will serve faithfully and well the patrons on the route. Route 5 begins at Graysport, the carrier there picking up the mail carried out by W. M. Joiner, carrier on route 4. Mr. Joiner's route from Graysport turns south to Gore Springs and its eastern limit is at Cadaretta.

Mr. Parker retires after having given nearly a year's service in which it is learned that he proved to be faithful in all things. He has been exceedingly accommodating, so the patrons on the route state, and is a young man worthy of confidence and who can be trusted in all things.

Mr. Brown begins his service June 18, and it is stated that it is believed that he will well maintain the splendid standards of the service on that route.

GIRL SCOUT DEPARTMENT

Monday, May 28 was the beginning of a very enjoyable camp for 26 girl scouts of troop 2. We were accompanied by Mrs. Atkinson, Fay Gunn, and Willie, the cook, and pitched camp on Mr. W. A. Winter's place. Upon arrival, we found that Mrs. Rundle had selected the site upon a beautiful hillside near a spring and Sam Simmons and Billy McCaslin, boy scouts had our tents ready for us to place the cots. Cooking quarters were arranged at the bottom of the hill near the spring. The girls divided themselves into two groups, each occuping a separate tent, and named themselves "The Red Devils" and "The Bull Dogs". A whistle announced meal time and each girl took her plate, knife, fork, spoon and cup and formed a line at the top of the hill. After singing "Thanks" we marched down the hill to be served delicious food which had been planned by our council, furnished by our parents, and prepared by Mrs. Atkinson and Willie with the help of baker boys, handy men and water boys from our girls. After meals, each girl washed her own dishes. Edna Jackson and Sam Simmons prepared the camp fire and around it we enjoyed many songs, jokes and stories. After campfire we retired for the night but not to sleep, for the thrill of the out-of-doors was too much for us the first night. "Reveille" sounded at six a. m. "Colors" at 6:45 then breakfast, dishwashing, and to the tents to prepare for personal and tent inspection. After dinner we had rest hour and scouting. Mr. and Mrs. Winter and little son, William, joined us for the swimming hour from four to five p. m. The following girls of troop 2 enjoyed the camp: Ruth Jackson, Clauzelle Holliman, Marie Norwood. Margaret Best, Lucile Best, Adelaide McCaslin, Mary Louise West, Grace Cowles Horton, Annie Frances Honeycutt, Mary Elsie Campbell, Mary Phelan Brown, Rachel Todd, Frances Rose, Catherine Betz, Edna Jackson, Fay Gunn, Mrs. Atkinson, Sam Simmons, Billy McCaslin, Willie, the cook and Ruth Kirk, Scribe.—Scribe.

GIRL SCOUT DEPARTMENT

The Girl Scouts of troop 1 returned Saturday morning, June 2nd from camp. The scouts had a splendid time and enjoyed every moment of the camp.

There were two tents, which the boy scouts had so kindly pitched for the girl scouts. The flags were placed in front of the tent facing east and every morning at 6:00 o'clock the scouts had "colors."

Very enjoyable meals were served and there was plenty of good fresh water to drink. Willie was the cook and she was assisted by the baker boys and Mrs. Atkinson, the leader of troop 1.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Winter were so kind as to let the camp be pitched on their lovely place and the girl scouts greatly appreciate the kindness. Grace Kirk, Scribe

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Sentinel is authorized to announce the following as candidates for Congress of the United States from the Fourth Congressional District, subject to the action of the Democratic Primaries in August:

For Congress
(Fourth Congressional District)
JEFF BUSBY, of Chickasaw County
C. H. ALDRIDGE, of Montgomery County.
A. T. PATTERSON, of Calhoun County

AN AL SMITH VICTORY.

The State Democratic convention which was convened Tuesday in Jackson showed that Mississippians at least keep their bearings in some cases and that they refuse to be led off by phantom issues or will-o'-the-wisp self-constituted leaders. Those who insisted on nothing but an out and out "dry declaration" were licked on their own battle ground. It was these that brought the question of favoring or not favoring the candidacy for the Presidency of Gov. Al Smith of New York to the fore and they caught it where Nelly wore the beads.

Misguided and well meaning enthusiasts, encouraged by a few bushwhacking politicians, sought a well defined resolution that the state delegation to the national convention should go instructed "to vote for nobody but a dry" regardless of how long the "dry" had been "dry"; or of his convictions on the tariff, which takes out of the pockets of the many and puts what is taken into the pockets of the already rich and favored few; or for what his position is on the question of further enlarging bureaucracy which is fastening its festering talons on the very life strings of the country; or his attitude on foreign questions—these were all to be disregarded if he said he would stand by the little dry amendment that every really well informed, thinking man knows is able to stand alone.

It was generally conceded that those who regard the nomination of Smith as inevitable were opposed to instructions. These were led by those noble, farseeing Senators, Stephens and Harrison, and that well poised and able Congressman. W. M. Whittington.

The out and out drys, some of whom have threatened a bolt if Smith is nominated, were led by Gov. Bilbo, Congressman Webber Wilson and a few others.

The issue was clear cut. The victory of those opposing instructions was so significant that he who runs may read.

Of course there was that byplay in the advocacy of a dry resolution that is nearly always played by the politician who cannot see a tomorrow. Unquestionably there were scores who professed to be "standing with the women" who are ready to take a nip at the winking of an eye. Many plunderous jobs have been put off on the government by those who sought to hide their purposes behind the purity and grandeur of womanhood. Oh, what crimes have been committed in the name of womanhood by designing politicians and those who know not the first letter of the alphabet of a true statesman. Of course we do not place all in this class who were for declaring against Smith, but there was just enough of the kind we have named to spoil almost any good thing—the hollow hand of that brigade could be read in the dark cloud that they sought to place on the political horizon.

Senators Hubert Stephens and Pat Harrison proved their valor. They showed their mettle. They gave a demonstration of their wise leadership.

It is no new thing for Mississippi to send its delegation to the national convention uninstructed. It would have broken a long precedent to have done otherwise. The delegation is to vote as a unit. This, too, has long been the Mississippi practice.

When the Houston convention gets into action, we believe the delegation named has the judgment to cast such a vote as they believe to be best for the country, the state of Mississppi and the Democratic party.

The writer was a member of the convention as one of the representatives from this good old County. It was our first experience. We enjoyed it. We were shown every courtesy by the older heads and wiser ones and we feel quite complimented at being named one of the two alternates from this congressional district with a half vote in the Houston convention. Of course we are not vain enough to think that all the consideration shown us was because of anything we did, but we feel that the loyal friends our father has throughout the state were the inspiration of the modest consideration shown us. One of our brothers, Ellett, from Greenwood, was also a member of the convention.

CHURCH LEADERS TREADING ON DANGEROUS GROUNDS.

Some of the protestant church leaders are treading hazardous grounds when they leave the field of spiritual affairs, which almost all agree was never before so full of tares that are poisonous and deadening, to undertake to advise those who ought to be better versed in statecraft than they are. Regardless of what the church may be or is, the laymen of these United States will, as they have always done, rebel at ecclesiastical dictation in matters of state.

And the organization which is just now shaking its dead bones behind the garments of the clergy and the purity of womanhood but heightens the disgust which is almost universal at its pretensions.

We confess between the sheet of the Ku Klux Klan and the shirttail of a priest, we have but little choice, but would prefer the latter.

The churches are the hope and the refuge of the country. When our ministry fails at a vital point, or runs off after false gods, the greatest force for the propagation of righteousness, joy and peace as taught by the Master is atrophied, and the time is here for a reckoning and a starting over.

Primarily the Christian ministry was God's anointed. Let it be hoped that they are that today and that they will realize that when one's heart and purposes are at oneness with God, all other things will be well.

TOM HEFLIN WAS PAID TO SPEAK

The senatorial investigation of campaign expenses of candidates for the presidency revealed that Senator Tom Heflin of Alabama had been receiving $250. per speech for what he has said against Gov. Al Smith. Heflin is a man of no small ability, but he does more speaking to vacant seats than any other man in the senate. It has been paying the Senator to leave the senate halls, where the people are paying him over $833. per month to remain, to run around over the country and make a few hundred dollars extra. That patriotism which is extracted by the eagle on a dollar is quite akin to the silliness with which the clown acted "because" as he said, "the owner of the circus" paid him "well to do so."

There was once a day in Mississippi when the Ku Klux was needed. Those who constituted the Klan then were not office-seekers, money-grabbers or hoodwinkers of any kind. But today the leaders may be properly designated as money-getters, non-producers, invisible in peace, loquacious in war and vacuums in statesmanship.

AUCTION SALE

of Valuable Building Lots in

Sun Garden Terrace

GRENADA, MISS.

THURSDAY, JUNE 14th, 1:30 P. M.

EX-PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT SAID: Every person who invests in well selected real estate in a prosperous community adopts the surest method of becoming independent, for real estate is the basis of all wealth.

If you visit SUN GARDEN TERRACE you will think Mr. Roosevelt was speaking of this very section when he emphasized "WELL SELECTED".

GRENADA is built jam up to it and beyond it. It is but a few minutes walk from both college and high school in the best residental part of the city. It is the nearest in property on the market. Do you realize after this auction you will have to go out more distance for a homesite?

The recent $300,000 endowment to Grenada College, means a greater school, larger enrollment, more population for Grenada and increased values in real estate.

Are you going to wait until SUN GARDEN TERRACE lots have changed hands many times at good profit and then buy? Or, are you going to make that profit yourself?

SUN GARDEN TERRACE is the magnet that will attract the best element. It is where they will want to live and will live. Remember only a limited number of lots sold at this auction.

SUN GARDEN TERRACE is situated on the east and west sides of Line Street adjoining the home of Mr. W. B. Hoffa on the south. Sewerage, water, electric lights and telephones will be available.

Grenada always delights in welcoming visitors, but it affords the community more than a pleasure to have those whose fathers and mothers lived here in the years ago return to the town maybe of their youth or to the town dear to the hearts of their parents. The Misses Knox are having the pleasure of entertaining in their lovely home on the corner of Union and Line Streets Mrs. Anna Gibbs Ball and Mrs. Kate Gibbs Mauldin, both of Jackson, Miss. These ladies are daughters of Capt. Julius Gibbs, long an honored citizen of Grenada and who for years cherished the thought that he would be able to develop Gibbs' Springs, three miles west of Grenada, into a health resort that would discover untold treasures for Grenada. Mesdames Wall and Mauldin are profuse in their praise of Grenada and join most heartily in the opinion which has become almost state-wide that "Grenada is unexcelled for civic beauty by any town in Mississippi".

FROZEN DELICACIES PLEASE GUESTS

The burden of warm weather entertaining has been lightened considerably by the advent of perfect electric refrigeration.

According to H. C. West, local manager Mississippi Power & Light Co., distributor of General Electric Refrigerators in Grenada, the hostess can prepare her fruit juices, mousses or other delicacies and place them in the refrigerator in plenty of time to be chilled or frozen for her party or club meeting.

These tasty, refreshing dainties never fail to bring exclamations of delight and surprise from the guests. Desserts may be made colorful, too, by the use of fruit juices or coloring matter.

The General Electric Company, manufacturers of the General Electric Refrigerator, has published a complete book of recipes for use with their machine. It is the first book of its kind published and gives the hostess an entirely new assortment of desserts from which to select. Of added interest is the special time payment offer now being made.

TALKS OF PASTURES

Now is the time to start clipping weeds from our pastures if we want to get the full benefit of the cheapest feed for our dairy cows. County Agent G. R. Fulton tells of some wonderful pastures he saw recently on his trip through Kentucky and Tennessee.

The basis of successful dairy development in the south, the grasses he saw in Kentucky and Tennessee will all grow well in Mississippi, with the exception of Blue Grass, and our native Bermuda grass takes the place of Blue Grass. Among the clovers he saw in the best pastures were white clover, alsike clover, sweet clover and yellow hop clover. All of these, with the exception of white clover, grow everywhere around the county and by adding lime sweet clover will grow. Lespedeza seems to grow better here than any place he visited. Lots of our boarder cows will appear as production bred cows on a pasture of this kind.

Another very impressive thing that Mr. Fulton tells us about is the winter cover crops in the dairy sections of Tennessee and Kentucky. Rye is the one mostly used, pastured in the winter, turned under in the spring and followed by field crop. It is not too late yet to plant soya beans. People of the dairy section rank soya beans high as a protein feed when crushed vine and all analysed 20% protein and make an excellent home grown dairy feed. Another thing Mr. Fulton tells us about is the monuments that have been erected to cotton and tobacco production. The dairy cow has replaced them both.

Many dairymen in these sections made statements that they had lost money in every agricultural project they got into except the dairy cow.

LET'S SETTLE THIS TIRE QUESTION NOW

Most manufacturers claim to have "the better tire." They're sincere.

The tires of 1928 are better, of course, than the tires of 1908 and 1918. It's to be expected that the tire of 1938 will be better still.

But the man buying a tire today wants to know, "What's the best tire on the market NOW?"

Everybody tells him: "I've got it—a bargain." "Here it is—with a special discount." Claim upon claim, inducement on inducement.

Yet, after all, the intelligent buyer will always bank on this "preponderance of the evidence," as the lawyers call it:

MORE PEOPLE RIDE ON GOODYEAR TIRES THAN ON ANY OTHER KIND

The reason for this is plain. Goodyear Tires have made good. They are supreme on the road, where performance is the only judge.

Goodyear keeps this leadership unchallenged because—Goodyear makes the world's Greatest Tire—

Goodyears out-perform any other tires;

Goodyears sell at fair prices without "bargains," "discounts" or cuts in quality;

Goodyears are backed by a standard, friendly, expert service—the kind we give you here.

Every customer we have will vouch for these statements about the Goodyear Tires we sell.

It will be a pleasure to show you the new Goodyear and demonstrate our service.

25 YEARS AGO IN GRENADA

From the Files of THE GRENADA SENTINEL

The beautiful and popular Miss Freeman Parker is visiting relatives at Clarendon, Ark.

Mr. George W. Field, his lovely child and elegant wife, left Wednesday for West Newton, Mass., to spend the summer.

Dr. W. G. Kiger, of Vicksburg, candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, was in Grenada Thursday, where he made many friends. He is one of the best and most practical gentelemen in the state, and will be elected to the important office to which he aspires.

Mr. Mose Davis and Miss Ada Beatty were united in marriage on last Saturday evening.

Rev. J. R. Countiss, of Oxford, and the former pastor here, was warmly greeted here for the commencement exercises of the Grenada Female College.

Miss Howze, of Wall Hill, Clyde Cochran, of Byhalia, and Mr. Christy, of Coldwater, attended the Howze-Sharp nuptials here on Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. J. P. Broadstreet attended the State Dental meeting at Jackson Wednesday. He also attended the State Dental association last week.

Mrs. W. M. Simpson and little daughter, Marion, of Sumner, Miss., visited friends and relatives here this week.

Mr. Saxton Angevine, of East St. Louis, is visiting his cousin, Mrs. T. F. Weir, seven miles east of Grenada. He is a neuhew of Capt. S. S. Angevine, who died in Grenada in 1878.

Rev. C. W. Hinton, missionary at Greenwood and Grenada, has been called to the rectorship of Christ church at Vicksburg, as the successor of the late Rev. H. Samson. We regret the loss of Mr. Hinton, but all unite in congratulating him upon his deserved promotion.

Quite a large number of people from Grenada were present at the laying of the cornerstone of the new capitol at Jackson Wednesday.

Dixie Chapter U. D. C., will hold its regular session, and be entertained by Mesdames James and Jones, at the residence of Mrs. G. B. Jones, Thursday, June 11th, at 4 o'clock p. m. Respond to roll call with a brief sketch of leading Confederates.

Hon. A. J. Baker of San Angelo, Texas, is visiting his sister, Mrs. S. A. Morrison, his brother, Mr. W. R. Baker, and other relatives in the country. Mr. Baker was raised in Duck Hill, and is well known to a large number of our citizens. He is at present the president and principal stockholder of a bank in his town.

Miss Annie Laura Owens, who has attended the I. I. & C. at Columbus, Miss., for the past session, returned to her home last week.

Prof. B. G. Lowrey, of the Blue Mountain Female College, will lecture at the Central Baptit church tomorrow (Sunday) morning and evening.

Rev. R. E. Bell will preach in the Baptist church tomorrow (Sunday) morning and evening. All are invited and especially the members.

Mrs. H. M. Brown, of Cairo, Ill., spent a few days here this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Garner.

Hon. R. B. Mayes, of Hazlehurst, has been appointed chancellor of the fifth district of Mississippi.

The bright and charming Miss Bessie West, of Collins, is visiting the Misses McLeod.

The popular Mr. Clifton Curle, of Greenwood, spent a few days in our town this week.

Hon. A. H. George, of Carrollton, was in Grenada yesterday.

Prof. J. N. Powers, principal of the Grenada Graded School, has resigned his position here to accept the principalship of the West Point Public School. Grenada parts with him and his excellent family with sincere regret, and we can assure West Point that they are fortunate indeed in securing his services.

The Grenada Graded Public School closed one of the most successful sessions in its history Tuesday. The enrollment has been twenty per cent higher than in many years. The following pupils received diplomas: Andrew Carothers, Ethel Moore and Dodie McLeod. The board of trustees will elect a principal and assistant teachers today.

Mr. H. A. Dame, a prominent merchant and leading citizen of Tillatoba, was in Grenada the first of the week.

Miss Gillespie, of Virginia, is visiting Mrs. Gwin.

Messrs. J. L. Peete and L. G. Leigh, of Tutwiler, Miss., spent several days here this week.

A number of our leading citizens organized a new oil mill here last Tuesday. Judge J. C. Longstreet was elected president of the company, with J. B. Perry general manager and H. J. Ray treasurer. A board of eleven directors was also chosen, composed of prominent people of this place and the surrounding towns. The new mill will have a capacity of forty tons of seed per day, and the estimated cost is $40,000.

Mrs. I. A. Clark and Miss Ike Stoker, of near Winona, are visiting Mrs. M. L. Phillips, after being the guests of Miss Mary Clark, of the Grenada Female College during the commencement exercises.

Married at the residence of the bride's parents, Grenada, Miss., Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, Mr. Andrew Howze, of Texarkana, Ark., and Miss Minnie Sharp, Rev. R. O. Brown, of Brooksville, officiating.

Rev. Scrivins, a prominent minister in the A. M. E. church failed to get out to his appointment last Sunday and because of that fact, concluded to visit Rev. G. M. Chisholm, pastor of Vincent M. E. church. In former times they had been very intimate and seemed delighted to renew their intimacy and association. He was in the Sunday School session and exposed his views on the lesson. At the 11 a. m. service he preached a fine sermon using as his subject, "Introducing Jesus". His discourse was both practical and edifying.

Miss Maggie Belle Fitzgerald has returned home from Tupelo, Miss., where she has been attending school. She is a promising young miss just budding into womanhood. She is glad to be back home.

Rev. Blake and wife, Rev. Scrivin and Mrs. Barnes of this city, have returned from Chicago where they went to attend the general conference of the A. M. E. church. Rev. Blake and Scrivin were delegates to that august body. Both of these gentlemen are well qualified to represent their church in its lawmaking capacity. They report that it was the greatest general conference in the history of the church. 4 men were elected to the office of bishop beside other great matters were considered and disposed of.

Miss Cora Bostic, wife of Rev. J. S. Bostic is back home after being a subject in the hospital in Memphis for several weeks. She is much improved and is now on the road to recovery.

Rev. Bostic for several months has been passing through some trying ordeals so much so that through the sympathy and kindness of Dr. J. S. Sharp, he was greatly assisted in getting charity consideration for his wife. His financial condition was such that but for the interest and help shown him by Dr. Sharp, his wife might have continued to suffer, and maybe have gotten beyond medical skill.

Henry Harvey, wife and little grandson, Evans Phillips, and Eddie Ward motored to Memphis last Tuesday morning. The trip was to carry their little grandson to his mother who lives there.

Mrs. E. L. Wilson after spending two weeks with relatives and friends, returned to her home in Cairo, Ill. last Monday evening. Her father, Rev. J. M. Weathers, returned with her and will spend some time with her and will go from there to visit his other children and spend the remaining part of the summer in Chicago.

On last Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Walter Branch gave a reception in honor of Mrs. E. L. Wilson where an enjoyable time was had and everybody departed feeling much refreshed.

SICKLY, PEEVISH CHILDREN

Children suffering from intestinal worms are cross, restless and unhealthy. There are other symptoms, however. If the child is pale, has dark rings under the eyes, bad breath and takes no interest in play, it is almost a certainty that worms are eating away its vitality. The surest remedy for worms is White's Cream Vermifuge. It is positive destruction to the worms but harmless to the child. Price 35c. Sold by

"I took Cardui at intervals for three years, and have been in good health since last fall," says Mrs. Noble J. Hayes, of Waterloo, S. C. "My improvement after taking a course of this medicine was really remarkable.

"I am much stronger and can accomplish so much more work now. My weight increased twenty pounds, and my color is good.

"For a long time I had been feeling poorly. Some days I dragged around the house and had not enough energy to do my housework.

"I worried a lot about myself. I did not seem like myself, and my nerves were all on edge. I did not sleep well, and my appetite left me.

"I found Cardui to be an excellent tonic. After I had taken it a few weeks, I began to pick up and to gain in weight and strength."

Her Dreadful Past

The Amazing True Story of a Girl Patricide

PERHAPS you recall reading in the newspapers the case of Gretchen, the girl who poisoned her father—and then, at her trial, refused to utter a word in her own defense. You read of her conviction and incarceration. There, apparently, the story ended. But really it was only the beginning of one of the most amazing human dramas ever enacted.

In prison Gretchen performed her duties in utter silence; nothing interested her; she kept to herself—an outcast branded for life.

Then Mary Howard came to the prison to teach. Her heart went out to the little daughter of the slums. She tried, by kindness and encouragement, to make Gretchen feel that she was not a pariah but a girl like other girls.

At first Gretchen feared and distrusted her; but later with her head in the kindly teacher's lap, her body wracked with sobs, she told for the first time the dreadful story which, had she told it to the jury, would probably have resulted in her acquittal.

The complete story of the events leading up to her dreadful crime, her trial, imprisonment, eventual parole, and the glorious success she is now making of her life, is entitled "Out of the Slums" and appears in July True Story Magazine—now on sale. Don't miss it!

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. P. B. Fitzwater, D. D.
Dean, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago
(©, 1928, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for June 10

THE ARREST AND TRIAL

LESSON TEXT—Mark 14:43-15:1-5.
GOLDEN TEXT—He was despised, and rejected of men (Isa. 53:3).
PRIMARY TOPIC—How Wicked Men Treated Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Trial of Jesus.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Trial of Jesus.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus Facing His Enemies.

I. The Betrayal and Arrest (vv. 43-52).

1. The sign to the mob (vv. 43-47).

With the basest hypocrisy Judas pointed out Jesus to the mob by a kiss, the sign of love.

2. Jesus forsaken by all (vv. 48-52).

At the sight of His betrayal, one of Jesus' disciples attempted to defend Him by resorting to the sword, but seeing that He made no attempt at resistance they all fled. Their courage failed them in the hour of trial. How little man knows of his own weakness until the crucial hour comes.

II. Jesus Before the Sanhedrin (vv. 53-65).

1. Contradictory testimony of false witnesses (vv. 53-59).

The chief priests and all the council sought for witnesses against Jesus to put Him to death, but they found none because there was no unity of testimony. They accused Him of having declared that within three days He would build again the temple if it were destroyed.

2. The high priest's questions (vv. 60-65).

(1) "What is it that these witness against Thee?"

To this Jesus was silent, showing that no evidence had yet been given worthy of an answer.

(2) "Art Thou the Christ?"

To this He definitely replied, "I am," and definitely quoted a Scripture passage which they recognized as referring to the Messiah. This claim they answered with buffeting and the most shameful treatment.

III. Peter Denied His Lord (vv. 66-72).

Though Peter loved Jesus, yet in the hour of supreme trial he failed. Grievous as his sin was, it was not like that of Judas. His failure was due to:

1. Boasting self-confidence (vv. 29-31).
2. Lack of watchfulness (v. 37).
3. Neglect of prayer (v. 38).
4. Service in the energy of the flesh (v. 47).
5. Following Jesus afar off (v. 54).
6. Seeking comfort among the Lord's enemies (v. 67, cf. Luke 22:55).
7. Open denial (vv. 68-72). His backsliding really began when he shrank from the cross.

IV. Jesus Arraigned Before Pilate (15:1-5).

In the early morning after the trial before the high priest they bound Jesus and delivered Him to Pilate. They acted freely in this according to the evil desires of their own hearts, yet He was delivered up by the determined counsel and foreknowledge of God (Acts 2:23). The Jews would gladly have killed Him, but they had not the authority to do so. They delivered Him to the Gentile governor, thus involving the Jews and the Gentiles in the crowning act of the world's sin. Pilate questioned him without delay, for they accused Him of pretending to be a king. "Thou sayest," was His reply. To the slanderous accusations of the chief priests and elders He made no reply, to the utter astonishment of Pilate. Pilate sought to release Him because he was convinced of His innocence. After several unsuccessful efforts to escape responsibility, he expeditient of letting the people choose between Barabbas and Jesus was resorted to. He no doubt thought that Jesus would be chosen rather than the notorious Barabbas.

GENERAL ELECTRIC Refrigerator

$10.00 down Balance in Fifteen Months

Even the best milk has a bacterial content which will multiply with alarming rapidity if kept at a temperature even two degrees above the danger point—50 degrees.

For safety sake, all milk should be kept several degrees below 50. The average temperature of a General Electric Refrigerator under household conditions is 42 degrees. This is one vital reason why every homemaker should consider the need for scientifically correct refrigeration.

There are countless other reasons, too. There is the triple economy of no wasted food, of buying in quantity, and low cost of operation. There's the comfort of this quiet, worry-proof refrigerator which has all the machinery located up and away from floor dirt and sealed in a steel casing and it never needs oiling. THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—Possessing characteristics that have earned him the nickname "Go Ahead," George Morton, Virginian, is the recipient of a communication (intended for his father, who is in the East) from Tom "Fair," asking the senior Morton, for sake of old friendship, to send some one to rescue his foster daughter, Stella, a relative of the Mortons, from a band of outlaws of whom "Fair" is the leader. "Fair" himself cannot bring her out, being watched by an enemy whom he designates only as "Jim." In the absence of his father, Go Ahead decides to go for Stella. As a cowboy, but with credentials as an official of the United States Secret Service, he leaves for Loboville, the place designated, with a colored attendant, Caesar.

CHAPTER II. — At "Robbers' Roost," the outlaws' stronghold, Fair explains the situation to Stella. The girl, eighteen years old, does not want to leave her adopted father or give up the free life she has led, more like a boy than a girl.

CHAPTER III.—Fair, at Jim Barker's direction (the "Jim" the outlaw had referred to, and the sheriff of the county) sends a gang to run a shipment of rifles and ammunition into Mexico and return with a consignment of whisky. He puts a man, Wade, whom he knows is his enemy, in charge. Unknown to Fair, Stella, with Wade's connivance, rides, dressed as a boy, with the whisky runners. Fair's messenger returns with the news that Go Ahead is on his way.

CHAPTER IV.—The bandits' errand is successful, and the party brings up at Barker's ranch. There Wade refuses to allow Stella to return to Robbers' Roost, making a proposal of marriage, which the girl refuses. Wade declares he will force her to marry him, and threatens to attack her. They struggle.

CHAPTER V.—Go Ahead comes on the scene, witnesses the struggle and overcomes Wade. He has no suspicion of Stella's sex. She tells him her name is "Bob." According to arrangements with Wade, Barker appears and is also disarmed by Go Ahead. A Portuguese cowboy, Diego, fires at Morton, and "Bob" escapes, to follow the gang to Robbers' Roost. Go Ahead also gets away and goes after the girl.

CHAPTER VI.—Stella overtakes the outlaws, her arrival astonishing those in the plot, but they say nothing. Jack Green joins them and learns from Stella of Go Ahead's presence at the ranch. He tells her who her rescuer is. Stella decides to return and rejoin Go Ahead. She is pursued. Go Ahead intercepts her.

CHAPTER VII

STELLA went straight to the point. "Glad to see you," she chortled; "'specially as I'm in trouble again. If you're not bound for anywhere in particular, maybe you won't mind going my way. There're some fellows back there over the rise that seem to have a grouch on me, you know."

"Sure I know," Go Ahead did not speak until Stella stopped, but well before that time he had spun about and was galloping beside her. "Funny how many undesirable citizens there are in the country nowadays," he observed.

Stella nodded. "Aint it the truth?" she answered. "But what're you doing up here?"

"Came after you. Felt sort of responsible. Wanted to be sure you got home safe. Still want to. Who are your friends over the crest?"

"Nobody worth talking about. But I guess we'd better hurry some or they'll come pestering around." Stella touched her horse with the spur and he quickened his pace. "You from the East?" she asked.

"Go Ahead laughed. "Discovered!" he exclaimed, gayly. "I thought my make-up was perfect, and here a—a—shall we say a sixteen-year-old boy?—sees through it the first crack out of the box."

Stella dropped her head quickly in order to hide the gleam in her eyes. That morning, for the first time in her life, the fact that she was a woman had been really brought home to her (neither Barker's proposal nor Fair's warning had done it before); and she was only too glad that this eastern cousin of hers had not guessed her sex.

Her first real thought was that his ignorance gave her an opportunity, herself unknown, to try him out and find out what sort of man he really was. The events of the morning had corroborated what Fair had told her and had deeply shaken her faith in the "boys" among whom she had been brought up; the scales had at least partly fallen, and she had begun to see them as they really were. Naturally, in her first spasm of disillusion, she had begun to wonder whether all men were the same when women were concerned—whether, specifically, the particular man beside her was the same at heart.

Instantly, as was her wont, she decided to claim no kinship with this cousin of hers and to conceal her sex until she had found out for herself whether he—and the new world which he represented and into which she was going—was any better than the men and the old world from which she was about to depart.

To revolve all this in her mind and to think up an answer to his hinted question as to her age took her about three seconds. Then she looked up. "You might say sixteen if you've a mind to," she returned, laughingly. "And I didn't guess you were from the East from the way you acted up when you jumped in at the window this morning. By the way, what's your name? You haven't told me."

For a moment Go Ahead hesitated. He was traveling as George Morton, which, while it had the advantage of being his own name, was less conspicuous than his common appellation. He might easily tell this youngster that his name was George Morton. He opened his mouth to do so; then switched in midaction. "My name's Morton," he said; "commonly called Go Ahead because I like to butt into things. But I'm not using that part of it these days, and when other folks are 'round I'd rather you'd call me—"

"Go-ey?" suggested Stella.

"Er—well, yes, if you like."

"All right. Now tell me what you did to those triplets I wished onto you at the ranch."

Go Ahead chuckled. "Didn't do a thing to them," he replied. "Just sicked 'em on each other and came away and left them to fight it out. Haven't seen any list of casualties yet."

Stella turned her horse to the west before she answered. She had glimpsed something ahead. Then—"Reckon there weren't any," she remarked, with the utmost carelessness. "Less'n perhaps it was Diego. It's most too far to be certain sure, but I'm guessing that Bill Wade and Jim Barker are in with that bunch of Mexicans that just came over the crest there that we was heading for. And"—Stella looked back over the course they had just traversed—"yes, there's Black Kennedy and his gang coming from behind us. We're between the two, and they're too many for us to fight. So I guess we'd better move along sort of pronto, if you don't mind."

"Don't mind a bit." Go Ahead had followed Stella's turn to the west long before he got a chance to answer, and the two horses were racing along the bottom of the dip at top speed. "You seem kind of popular 'round about these parts, Bob," he suggested.

"Yeppy! Am today, all of a sudden. Never was before. Found out this morning, too. Oh, yes, I'm popular."

Go Ahead did not answer at once. He was studying the situation and considering the possibilities. He knew, and he was sure the boy beside him knew, for all his flippancy, that it was one that called for considerable study. For the moment, indeed, he saw no way out.

He and Bob were racing westward between the crests of two long ridges that ran parallel to their course about a mile away on either side. The two outlaw parties—Go Ahead had made up his mind that they were outlaws and that Bob was or had been affiliated with them—had changed their courses as soon as he and Bob had changed theirs and were riding slantingly to intercept them. Inevitably they were cutting down the interval and would certainly continue to do so for some time to come.

Go Ahead realized that unless he could find some way out the race was bound to end sooner or later in favor of the pursuers; at any moment a single shot might do it by merely wounding one of the horses. Anxiously he stared ahead, to where a low distant rise seemed to cross their path.

"Is there a rise ahead of us?" he asked; "or don't you know?"

"Sure I know. I wrote the map that the Lord used in building this country. It's a rise all right. If we can get over it we'll have a chance to get away, for there're miles of twistified country beyond that'll fool most of those fellows that are after us, maybe all of them. Listen, and I'll tell you about one or two turns. You never can tell when you'll want to know, you know."

The girl's voice showed not even a tremor. It ran along smoothly—as smoothly as if she were chatting about some indifferent subject under purely normal conditions. Glancing at her in wonder Go Ahead decided that she simply did not realize the danger. And in this he was right; Stella with the gang had been chased before and on such occasions had never seen anyone seriously wounded or caught; and she had come to believe herself and her friends immune.

Meanwhile, the outlaws steadily closed in from both sides. They did not fire, however; being on the flanks of the fugitives, who rode side by side, they could not fire at Go Ahead without running the risk of killing Stella, and even Kennedy's gang knew better than to do that. Besides, it seemed for the moment unnecessary. Their slanting approach, though, it brought them nearer, yet inevitably brought them more and more directly behind the fugitives. Soon the one broad target would separate into two distinct ones. Then it would be reasonably safe to concentrate their fire on Go Ahead.

By and by single bullets, fired apparently by a single marksman on the left, began to whistle closer and closer to Go Ahead. Stella noticed this, and for the first time anxiety began to show in her manner. "That's Jim Barker shooting," she exploded. "He thinks he can shoot, and I guess he won't risk anybody else hitting me. I'm afraid I've got you into a fix."

"Humph! Maybe. Not much risk yet. Their chance'll come when our horses have to slow down in going up that rise while theirs are still running on the level. Once we get to the top we'll be all right."

Stella feared for Go Ahead, not for herself. After all, this had been none of his quarrel, she told herself. He had come into it solely in her defense. Of course others had defended her in the past, but they had been life-long friends and they had known that she was a girl. Go Ahead was a stranger who believed her to be a boy and who had yet taken her side against heavy odds. If he were hurt—

The thought of surrendering occurred to her, but only to be instantly dismissed. She knew perfectly well that Go Ahead would never let her surrender alone, and she knew that for him to surrender would mean his certain death. Neither Barker nor Wade would ever forgive the humiliation to which he had subjected them at the ranch that morning.

She thought also of crossing to Go Ahead's left and falling a little bit behind him, not so much to intercept Barker's bullets as to force him to stop firing, but she knew instinctively that Go Ahead would never consent to it and that to attempt it would merely lose them time. Under the circumstances, it was the sensible thing to do; but Stella, being a woman, knew without being told that it was the man's part to take fool risks for pride's sake, even though they brought him death, because the taking of them helped to build up the spirit that has saved and will always save home and country.

At last the up-slope began, gentle at first, but swiftly steepening. The laboring horses, spurred hard, strove to maintain their pace but could not do it. Slower and slower they climbed.

Behind, the bandits, coalesced in one big group, came rapidly nearer; their bullets, no longer fired by Barker alone, whistled by the left-hand side of the double target. It was only a question of seconds till one should go home.

Stella did what she could, closer and closer she pressed to Go Ahead's side, despite his equally persistent efforts to sheer off and thus diminish her risk of catching a bullet aimed at him. But she knew in her heart that all she could do was useless.

On the crest at last, outlined against the brazen sky but with dawning hope in their hearts, the two raced across the few yards of level ground and turned downward. Another spring would take them out of sight. They took it, but as they took it Go Ahead's horse staggered and, carried by his impetus, raced a little downward and then toppled and fell, while Go Ahead, warned in time, sprang free.

Nevertheless, when only a few minutes later the bandits reached the crest they saw only one dead horse and another riderless one running northward and downward into the dip. Go Ahead and Stella had both disappeared.

Bewildered, the foremost outlaws drew up their panting horses on the crest and stared wonderingly at the narrow and shallow valley beneath them from which the fugitives had so mysteriously vanished. Sandy and wholly bare except for a few scattered tufts of stunted grass it seemed to offer no possible place of concealment, and its ends, though not very distant, seemed yet altogether too far away to have allowed the fugitives to reach them on foot in the time allowed. And that they must have done so on foot, if at all, seemed evident from Go Ahead's dead horse and Stella's riderless one.

While the foremost bandits halted Wade and Barker came hurrying up. Wade's head was bound up and he sat in his saddle with very apparent difficulty. Go Ahead would have judged from his appearance that Diego's bullet had done some execution. Barker showed no sign of injury, but he was a little behind Wade in reaching the crest because he had halted at the very last moment to get a better shot at Go Ahead.

Had Barker preceded Wade by even a moment Go Ahead's story would probably have ended then and there, for Barker would have paused to investigate. But Wade, burning with fever and maddened by pain, stopped for nothing. His eye caught sight of Stella's horse, which was still running northward, and with a yell he raced after it, blindly certain that Go Ahead and Stella had reached the end of the valley or had turned off into some intermediate gap that was invisible from where he stood.

His men followed him, and when Barker reached the crest he supposed that Wade had gone as he had for some good reason. So he followed. And for some moments the crest seemed deserted.

Not for long, however. Scarcely had the mass of the bandits reached the bottom of the draw when one of the laggers that inevitably adhere to any group of riders, and indeed to any group of men, came up the slope, crossed the crest and started downhill with every manifestation of hurry except speed. His eyes, fixed on his companions below, whose eyes in turn were fixed ahead, watching for traces of the fugitives, passed entirely over the ground close to his horse's hoofs and took no note whatever of a particular clump of tall grass a few feet wide that grew half a dozen paces to his left. He did not even look at it when his horse suddenly shied away from it. "Git up," he rasped, shaking his horse's reins. "Dang you, git up!"

The horse obeyed, and the instant he did so the bunch of grass flew to one side, revealing Go Ahead's face, and the sand stretching from it erupted as Go Ahead sprang from it, ran a few feet forward and vaulted to the horse's scruppers, behind his rider.

The first thing the man knew was when, coincident with the shock, he felt a pistol jabbed into his ribs and heard Go Ahead's order, calm but with deadly emphasis, "Get back across the crest, quick, if you want to live."

The man did want to live, and he obeyed instantly. Few men would have hesitated to do so under the circumstances. His horse, roweled deep and hard, swung round and almost vaulted over the crest in half a dozen convulsive bounds, stopping only when he squarely struck the horse of a second laggard who was toiling up the slope, and sent its rider flying from the saddle.

Before Go Ahead's bandit could recover from the shock he felt himself tossed to the ground to join his fallen companion. An instant later both men, struggling upward, found themselves staring into Go Ahead's revolver. "Hands up, boys," said Go Ahead, blandly.

The two men obeyed promptly; there was nothing else that they could do. As they lifted their hands Go Ahead whistled and a moment later Stella came flying over the crest, gun in hand.

When she saw the two prisoners she whistled, too, then put up her pistol, and began to dust the penetrating sand out of her clothes. "Well, for the love of Mike," she demanded, "were you born lucky or did you learn it in a correspondence school?"

Go Ahead grinned. "Both, I guess," he answered. "I thought I had one horse, but I didn't really hope for two. Just collect these chaps' guns, will you, Bob?"

Stella obeyed, willingly enough. She had seen the men's eyes quicken with recognition, and she wanted above all things to prevent their saying anything that would betray who she was. As she approached, she frowned at the two and shook her head slightly; then, an instant later as she took their guns, she muttered both a plea and a command: "Keep your mouths shut, and I'll help you." Then she went over and caught the still trembling horse that had been ridden by the second bandit.

Meanwhile Go Ahead was gesturing to the men. "Hit the trail you came by, boys," he ordered. "Go straight. I'll be right behind you in a minute."

The men faced about and started for the rear. As soon as they turned Go Ahead rose cautiously to the crest, mounting it till he could just see over it and scan the expanse of the valley.

Then he came back. "Your horse all right, Bob?" he asked.

Stella nodded. "Reckon so," she said. "He's shaken, but he can travel, I guess. See anything of the boys when you looked?"

"Not a thing. They've clean disappeared; turned off at the north end of the valley, probably. Let's go while the going is good."

A few bounds of the horses brought them close to the backs of the two prisoners, who were industriously plodding away. "Now, boys," said Go Ahead, "we've got a long walk before us, but I'll be as easy on you as I can. And the quicker you walk the sooner it'll be over and done with. See? Now get a move on, quick!" The last word came like a pistol shot.

The men got a move on instantly. They were riders, not foot travelers, but under Go Ahead's urge they hit and maintained a speed of which they would never have thought themselves capable. They knew that their fate lay in his hands. Up the slope and over the crest that Go Ahead indicated they hurried with scarcely a pause until they were well down on the other side.

Then Go Ahead shouted to slow them down, when they were reasonably out of earshot, in order to rest them and the horses, on which at any moment his and Bob's lives might once more depend, and also that he might talk to the boy at his side.

DIZZY Lost Appetite

Mr. M. F. Fiak, of Harrisburg, N. C., says: "It must have been fully twenty-five years ago that I began taking Black-Draught regularly.

"I was in town one day, and while talking to a friend I stooped over to pick up something. When I straightened up, I felt dizzy. I spoke to him about this and how I had not felt like eating.

"My friend told me to take some Black-Draught. I knew my mother had used it, and so I bought a package. When I got home, I took a good, big dose, and the next night another. In a few days I felt much better.

"A good many times I have had this dizziness and a bad taste in my mouth, or headaches, and then I take Black-Draught and get better. I do not have to take it very often. We buy from five to seven packages a year." Try it!

MORE SERVICE to Distant Points

THE work of extending and improving long distance telephone service in the Southeastern States will continue this year. The program calls for an expenditure of more than $4,000,000. Present long distance facilities in this section will be augmented by the construction of 11,385 miles of new circuit, including 134 new direct circuits.

In Mississippi eleven new circuits will be added by the close of 1928, representing 2,227 miles of new circuit. This will give this state 36,270 miles of circuits and 3,600 miles of pole line.

Many long distance users are expressing surprise at the speed with which toll calls are completed. New operating methods, now in effect throughout the territory, make it possible to establish long distance connection at an average time of 2.7 minutes. Incidentally, the quality of voice transmission is also perfect in 97 per cent of all toll calls.

These new circuits and improvements have been planned to care for the increasing volume of long distance business and to provide facilities for high speed service to additional points.
